Strangford, Portrait of a Village 1901-1911 is to be launched in September 2012 and is the second in a series of occasional monographs produced by the Lecale & Downe Historical Society, in addition to the annual journal, Lecale Review.

This monograph, written by Colm Rooney, is the study of the village of Strangford based on the 1901 & 1911 Census. This was a decade of great change on the eve of the First World War, and Colm's book gives a wonderful insight into the lives of individual people living in the village at this time.

This beautifully illustrated book will be similar in length to the Lecale Review. It will have a marked price of £10, but it is being offered at a pre-publication price of £8. Those who pay the £8 in advance will be able to collect their copy at the time of publication in September. Details of the launch will be sent out with the autumn programme.
